Training schemes unlike any other

By training in Wales, you'll get to choose from dozens of flexible, high quality specialty training programmes and receive support from experienced doctors, nurses, allied health professionals who can support your development.

Our new Education Contract is unique to Wales. That's because it guarantees you access to all the outpatients clinics, theatre sessions, ward rounds and other educational opportunities you need.

The Wales Deanery operates a wide range of specialty training programmes for you to choose from including the Broad Based Training Programmes in West Wales and North Wales and lots of specialty training such as the Mountain Medicine Program which trains on the foothills of Snowdon. All recruits into GP Training in Wales can rank their preferred training scheme and North Wales provides a range of opportunities across rural and urban settings and locations.

There are flexible training options. You can train on a less than full-time basis (LTFT), and our Out of Programme Experience (OOPE) which means you can take a break to gain additional clinical experience.

Fellowship opportunity

Development options include the opportunities to train on a highly regarded Welsh Clinical Academic Track (WCAT) Fellowship and Welsh Clinical Leadership Fellowships. By completing the Fellowship, you'll be ideally placed to build and lead the transitional research from bench to bedside or improvements in the delivery of healthcare.

"This is a very friendly place to work. I have grown up in the community and know both staff and a considerable number of the patients. I am currently on a secondment as the Transformational Lead for Primary Care. The Health Board is very good at identifying skills and supporting staff in expanding roles. I have been supported and developed as a clinician, manager, leader and most recently as an innovator, throughout my 38 years with the Health Board."

You'll be blown away by the beauty

From sensational beaches and rugged coastlines to majestic mountains, North Wales has it all. Nowhere in Wales will you experience the Welsh language, culture and history more so than in the northern counties.

Wherever you choose to live in North Wales, you are never too far from a beautiful view, a quiet forest or a bracing walk along a seaside promenade. That's the great thing about living and working in North Wales – we work hard but our surroundings have restorative powers.

In an area which hosts the Snowdonia national park along with great towns and cities such as Bangor, St.Asaph, Wrexham, and not to mention enough coastline to keep you busy for many weekends to come, providing downtime from working life and so much more to offer than a big city.

Living in North Wales may give you tranquility and stunning countryside on your doorstep, but it is also incredibly well connected and you're never far from the hustle and bustle of a major city. Offering excellent commuter links to Snowdonia National Park and the cities of the North West of England - Chester and Liverpool (also know as 'the capital of North Wales!) are less than an hour's drive away, and Manchester and Birmingham can be reached by car in under two hours.
